For the Common Good

Kenneth L. Morrison, ASCAP
i - e - ties of gifts come from the same Spirit; one here has the gift to be a great teacher;

Var - i - e - ties of services and some-one has the gift to tell and var-i-e-ties of act-i-vi-ties and there's some-one here with the gift to heal,
and var-i-e-ties of act-i-vi-ties
and there's some-one here with the gift to heal,
come from the same Lord;
and there's some-one here with the gift to heal,
come from the same Lord;
and var-i-e-ties of act-i-vi-ties
and there's some-one here with the gift to heal,
waiting for someone in need. We each can bring God pleasure, and
waiting for someone in need. We each can bring God pleasure,
come from the very same God, waiting for someone in need.
and filled us with a treasure, so
come from the very same God, waiting for someone in need.
we can live full measure, sharing our full measure for the common good.

we can live full measure for the common good.

We are made one body now with many different members,
and each of us is needed by all the rest.
So, come and give your all,

yes,
for the common good,

for the common good,

for the common good,

for the common good,

come and share your best for the common good,

come and share your best for the common good,

come and share your best for the common good,

come and share your best for the common good,

and each of us is needed by all the rest. Yes, yes,
for the common good,

for the common good,

for the common good,

for the common good,

come and share your best

for the common good,

for the common good,
for the common good, for the common good.
